Types of Adhesive Vinyl
 Signs on Films or Digital Print Films
 Films are produced in a variety of colors, which are cut into shapes, letters, etc. and applied as signage.
 Digital Print Films
 Films are designed for large format printing, usually white or translucent/transparency.
 Digital Print Films usually have an overlaminate film applied over the top to protect the print surface.

There are 2 methods used for producing vinyl films: calendared and cast.
Calendared Film
 The production process for vinyl results in a film usually used for flat or simple curves.

Cast Film
 A production process that results in a more conformable film, used for curved surfaces.
